IRIS

DESCRIPTIVE LIST
For 1928

Weed's Landscape
Nursery,
Beaverton, Oregon.

INTRODUCTION

WEED'S LAND-SCAPE NURSERY has grown the better varieties of perennials since its establishment in 1910, when specialization in peonies had its beginning. Although a few iris were grown then, specialization was not attempted until 1914, at which time most of the leading varieties then in the trade were obtained. These have been added to from year to year, until now we have one of the best selections of varieties existing.

At first only the bearded iris were grown, but as our own appreciation of the iris increased from year to year, we have added others in the beardless class — the Spurias, the Sibericas and the Japanese, and find that the soil and climatic conditions of Western Oregon are especially favorable for their growth. We have over a hundred varieties of the Japanese iris — probably the best collection of these beautiful flowers in America.

We have iris in bloom from November to August. Visitors are invited at all times, for even during the winter months we can show blooms of the delightful Speciosa. By the time this variety is through blooming in April, the dwarf bearded iris appear in flower. From April 20th until May 15th the intermediates are in bloom, after which the tall bearded iris in their glory make the best showing of all—lasting until June 10th. The Japanese iris wind up the season in the latter part of July, being at their best June 25 to July 15th.

Visitors can best make a selection of plants during the period of the best bloom of the tall bearded varieties—during the month of May. The nursery is located on the Tualatin Valley highway, six miles west of Portland and one mile east of Beaverton. Here are grown the best in ornamental plants, which are hardy for outdoor planting. The spring bulbs, dahlias, gladiolus and other plants, which require taking up during the winter months are not handled. Our general nursery catalog "Ornamental Plants for Landscape Gardening" and our peony catalog, "The Best in Peonies," are yours for the asking.

INFORMATION

We prepay postage and ship the day the order is received, unless otherwise instructed.

We do not substitute. Iris can be shipped at any season, but the ideal time for transplanting is from June to October.

No orders filled for less than one dollar.

Do not plant too deep. An iris grows naturally with the top of the rhizome showing above ground.

We keep only the best varieties, discarding those which do not come up to a high standard and adding new ones as their merit is demonstrated.

The numbers before the names of varieties refer to the rating given by the American Iris Society. Where no number is given, the variety is too new to have been rated. We try to have every variety rating above 80% and keep none rating below 75%.

Size of rhizome considered our prices are extremely low. Exceptional soil and climatic conditions promoting growth enable us to give our customers further price advantage.

OUR SEEDLINGS.

Our seedlings have been very much admired, but we long ago decided to discard any varieties that did not rate 75 or better. We had hoped to have the new symposium before the publication of this catalog, but as this was not possible, we asked for an advanced rating on our own seedlings. It was found, that three of these were below 75, and Bronze Lady was not rated. We withdraw from the trade Azure Glow, Bronze Lady, Curlesque and Greater May Queen and ask that those having these varieties discard them.

We have many new seedlings on the way which have had great care and study in their breeding. They promise to equal in qualities of beauty, substance, and popularity many of the newer things now cataloged.

As an inducement for quantity buying, we give six plants of a variety for the price of five.

The Winter Blooming Iris

These remarkable winter blooming flowers belong to the genus Ungicularis and are natives of Algeria and Asia Minor. The plants have long grass-like foliage and are the most continuous bloomers of any iris—the “cut and come again” sort. With us they begin blooming the last of October and continue, except in severe cold snaps, until April. The variety speciosa is preferable, because it is the best bloomer. Blooming at a season when there are no other outdoor flowers, this iris should have a place in every garden on the Pacific Coast.

SPECIOSA. S. clear lilac. F. white, veined purple at the center, with outer half soft lilac, deepening inward to purple. $1.00.

MARGINATA. S. Lilac-blue; F. margined white 50c.

Dwarf Bearded Iris

These form low mats of leaves 3 to 4 inches high, producing lovely flowers on short stems during March and early April. They are fine for rock work or planting in front of other sorts.

75 CYANEA. S. crimson-purple; F. darker, 25c

80 EBURNEA. S. almost pure white; F. pale yellow, slightly washed bluish. 25c.

63 FORMOSA. S. purple; F. darker. 25c.

74 ORANGE QUEEN. Clear yellow throughout. 25c.

84 SCHNEEKUPPE. White, slightly reticulated at base. 25c.

Intermediate Iris

These are so named because they are intermediate between the early dwarf varieties and the tall later flowering iris, in both length of flower stem and season of flowering. They bloom from the middle of April to early May, have large flowers and are very free bloomers. Many of them are of our finest varieties and some of this class should be included in every collection.

- 73 ALBICANS. Pure white throughout. Early. 25c.
- 81 CARTHUSIAN. S. clear lavender blue; F. darker. 25c.
- 80 DON CARLOS. S. blue; F. velvety reddish purple. 25c.

“WHAT MARVEL

“WHAT MARVELOUS PLANTS-- is the universal comment regarding our rhizomes. In the photo the four upper plants are eastern grown. The four lower rhizomes are from our gardens. We had a visit from a large eastern grower the past April and learned that not more than half the eastern grown plants bloom the first season. You will find that our plants give typical bloom the first year after planting.

“Iris purchased from you all bloomed and were very satisfactory”, Mrs. C. E. Bourdon, Roseville, California.

“Western Dream is especially beautiful and sturdy, standing out fresh and unwilted on the hottest day”, O. F. Gustafson, Minneapolis, Minn.

“Everyone that saw my Iris rhizomes, say they are the best they have seen”, Mrs. R. L. Poffenbarger, New Boston, Ill.

“I sent you a trial order last year, and your plants are fine”, Walter H. Kiessig, Davenport, Iowa.

“I never saw better roots in any shipment.”
Lee R. Bonnewitz, Van Wert, Ohio.

VELOUS PLANTS"

"I must comment on your plants, they are by far the finest and largest I have ever received or seen." Wesley I. Coddington, Martinsville, N. J.

"Iris obtained from you last season have done especially well, better than eastern grown plants", Mrs. Roscoe Barrett, Chicago, Ill.

"The thing that brings you this order is your first statement under INFORMATION. Last year I waited three months for an order and half the fun was lost", A. A. Beauchamp, Boston, Mass.

"The Iris divisions you sent were such good ones that I have spread the news", Mrs. B. S. Mechling, Riverton, N. J.

"Your rhizomes are simply wonderful", Rose Provost, Ware, Mass.

"If all Iris lovers knew the large size plants you send out and liberal count you give, they would all send orders to you", Charles H. Wagener, Hinsdale, Ill.

Much of your success in growing iris consists in getting the right start by purchasing from a grower who has soil and climatic advantages to give you large rhizomes. A trial order will give you positive proof of our claims.

Iris Spuria

These are generally mentioned as the oriental iris, because of being native to various oriental countries. Many of the forms now in the trade, however, have been produced by crossing with various species. The plants are mostly five feet in height, the flowers borne on a tall stiff stem well above the blade-like leaves. They do well in any soil, but will stand a wet soil in which the tall bearded iris will not grow. They can thus be massed to advantage on the border of pools or streams. They bloom the last of June with us.

- DOROTHY FOSTER. S. soft violet; F. light blue. 4 ft. $1.00.
JUNO. S. lilac-blue; F. white with shadings of blue. 50c.

MONSPUR. Various shades of blue. $1.00.
MRS. TAIT. Soft porcelain blue. 50c.
NOTHA. S. rich violet; F. blue, spotted yellow. 50c.
OCHROLEUCA. White, with orange blotch on falls. 50c.

JAPANESE IRIS.

These remarkable iris are as yet but little known. They bloom after the bearded iris and continue blooming for six weeks. They have three, six or nine petals, known respectively as single, double and very double in our descriptions. They do best planted in sunlight and well watered previous to blooming. Give good drainage and do not apply lime to the soil. We have best results when fertilized with sheep manure.

They are hardy in Michigan and Massachusetts, but should be covered with straw in northern states to prevent freezing and thawing during winter. The varieties are much mixed in the trade but the American Iris Society is now conducting a test garden to straighten the nomenclature. Our varieties are the very best and prove a revelation to visitors.

It is to be regretted that most growers sell "mixed" varieties, this term being used to designate plants grown from seed. Not one percent of such plants are worth growing, for they are flowers of no distinctive coloring. This is the reason why these iris are not more popular.

The named varieties which we offer will tell their own story of beauty in your garden.

Single.

We will send the entire collection of 32 varieties postpaid for $20.00.

Miscellaneous Iris

Under this head are grouped many varieties of iris, some of which are far different than the bearded iris.

CARMELO. Narrow flowers of an uncommon shade of blue. 50c.

DORAK. S. soft blue-violet; F. purple-violet. $3.00.

DOROTHEA WILLIAMSON. An American hybrid of a royal purple color. 50c.

PSEUDACORUS. Known as the Yellow Water Iris. Bright yellow. 25c.

PSEUDACORUS GIGANTEA. An improved form of the above. 50c.

ZWANENBURG. A curious green yellow flower, blooming for three weeks in April. It has three to five blooms to a stem and its peculiar bronze color makes it very attractive. Many growers class it among the fifty best iris. 25c.

A VISIT
WEED'S
IRIS AND
GARDENS

Portland, Ore., May 25th.

My Dear Mother:

IN MY LAST LETTER I wrote of our interesting ride up the Columbia Highway. At that time Aunt Hattie said that our next trip would be a visit to Weed's Gardens, near Beaverton. This afternoon we motored out the new Canyon road, gently rising through the hills west of the city for three miles and then descending for another three miles until Weed's Landscape Nursery was reached. We spent an hour in viewing the flowers and returned home via Terwilliger Boulevard. This drive—known as the "Beaverton Loop"—is one of 18 miles and for majestic rural beauty can only be compared with the great Columbia Highway.

The object of our visit to the Weed Gardens today was to view the 500 varieties of Iris now in full bloom. We call them Flags at home and until today I had never realized their beauty because I had never seen the marvelous new creations of the hybridizer's art. It is no wonder that the Iris is the national flower of France and is so generally known as the poor man's orchid. We saw the Iris as soon as we turned into the grounds, but their delicate beauty was not realized until Mr. Weed pointed out the merits of the varieties. Each kind is plainly labelled with the name upon a white stake. While there are many which somewhat resemble each other, it was a revelation to find such a variety of colors, for there were royal purple and gold, all shades of blue from delicate azure to deepest violet, cream and snowy-white, violet so dark as to be almost black, shades of fawn and brown, copper and bronze, crimson and rose, ruffled, pencilled and splashed in marvelous designs.

I cannot go into details as to the beauties of so many varieties. I gave an order for several, for next year I want you to be able to enjoy these flowers with me. I know that you will think me crazy when I tell you that some of them cost from three to five dollars. But really, Mother, I found some of these new varieties to be far superior to the common things in our garden. I made up for this extravagance by including in the order many 25-cent varieties, like that pretty Afterglow and Violacea. Mr. Weed stated that the price of a plant depends upon its true worth, combined with scarcity.

I was also told that I would soon become an "Iris Fan". Some of the best varieties pointed out to us were Alcazar, Asia, Frieda Mohr, Glowing Embers, Golden Promise, Julia Marlowe, Lady Foster, Magnifica, Mme.

Gaudichau, Moa, Morning Splendor, and Swazi. Western Dream is a beautiful lavender originated by Mr. Weed, while the Wm. Mohr is probably the variety attracting the most attention.

The American Iris Society, I learned, compiles a booklet in which all varieties in the trade are scored on the basis of 100 for perfection. Mr. Weed keeps no variety scoring less than 75, discarding all varieties of low merit. Iris ordered from his nursery must then be of superior merit.

Aunt Hattie asked about the winter blooming Iris, a picture of which she saw in a Portland newspaper last January. Mr. Weed showed us a color photo of this and explained that from these winter bloomers they have flowers continuously from November to April, by which time the other varieties begin to bloom. It hardly seems possible to have Iris blooming out of doors in winter.

Before we were through the large field, Mr. Weed had to leave us to look after some other visitors, so he turned us over to his wife. Mrs. Weed invited us to be seated under a Camperdown elm, the spreading branches of which formed an arbor. Beneath it was a large table used by the many picnic parties which visit the gardens. Weed's Nursery has become a mecca for Portland visitors, as there are always interesting flowers to be seen. The view of the Tualatin Valley spread out to the south, with majestic Mount Hood showing in the east and the distant Coast range of mountains in the west, forms a panorama never to be forgotten. It is not a large nursery, yet they have all the kinds of hardy ornamental plants found in the trade. We noticed quite a number of peonies in bloom, among them the old-fashioned red which we have at home. While we thought them quite pretty, Mrs. Weed stated she could not enthuse. "Come again in two weeks if you want to see the real show", she said. So we plan to make another trip to the gardens in about that time to see the peonies and I shall write you about them in a later letter.

Lovingly yours,

LUCILE.

Portland, Ore., June 5th.

My Dear Mother:

Today we made another most delightful visit to the Weed Gardens. Oh, Mother, I do wish you could have seen the 20,000 peony plants in bloom, with over 500 different varieties. You will remember that we saw a peony field in the movies last year, shown by the Pathe Company. Well, the field I saw today was the original of that news reel. And to think that it should be way out here in Oregon. If I told you half the beauty and size of these flowers you would probably say, "Yes, everything grows big in Oregon, even the liars".

After just a glimpse of the field we were escorted into a special display room in the basement of a new home where the flowers were arranged on tables with effective backgrounds and strong artificial lights to bring out the true color blendings. To describe the beauty of this display is simply impossible. Then, too, it was so hard to make a choice for our garden; I wanted them all, but of course we could not possibly squeeze them into our yard. I picked out about 14 varieties and left my order for September delivery. The roots come to us by parcel post with charges prepaid. I was particularly partial to the single and Japanese varieties. I included the best single white, Albiflora by name. Best of all, though, was Reine Hortense, an immense light pink, resembling in size and shape a small cabbage. They said this one was the best seller because of its splendid keeping qualities as a cut flower. This one at three dollars per root seemed of much more value than half a dozen of less merit.

The American Peony Society has the same system of scoring I wrote about in telling you of the Iris. These, too, are kept to Mr. Weed's standard of excellence. In such a high standard list nearly all varieties are equally of merit, but certain colors and forms appeal to some more than others. We found it an advantage to select varieties at the blooming season.

I always thought that both Iris and Peonies were in bloom for only a short time, but here at the Weed Gardens they have Iris in bloom from December to July and Peonies in bloom from April to July. This is accomplished by a selection of the early, mid-season and late varieties of these flowers.

We saw many of the bearded Iris still in bloom today, while the Japanese Iris are yet to flower. Aunt Hattie says that it will be worth our while to come at least once more to see Mr. Weed's collection of these increasingly popular Iris.

At the Rose Festival here next week the Weed Peonies will be shown in vases and many floats will carry masses of the flowers as part of the decorative scheme. I am looking forward to seeing the Festival with much pleasure and will write you all about it in my next letter.

Affectionately yours,

LUCILLE.

Weed's Landscape Nursery, Beaverton, Oregon, publishes the following catalogs, which will be sent on request:

“Ornamental Plants for Landscape Planting.”

“Iris, a Descriptive List.”

“The Best in Peonies.”

A BEGINNER'S BARGAIN COLLECTION.

We realize that catalog descriptions mean nothing to one not familiar with at least a few varieties. To the beginner we recommend the selection of varieties that will give a long season of bloom, that are inexpensive, have a good rating and represent a variety of colors.
